

Life Comes First

A Company of
VISION ZERO
Safety. Health. Wellbeing.

Our commitment to Occupational Health, Safety and Well-being

We make conscious decisions in all our operations and activities to prevent fatal accidents or accidents that cause permanent disabilities. On our path towards ZERO VISION, to reach the goal of zero fatal and severe occupational accidents, I commit to:

- Protect health and life above all things. Promote self-care for our own physical, mental and emotional health and that of people who are part of the team.
- Communicate any risky situation and perform immediate blocking actions.
- Exercise the practice of authority to stop work, as long as the activity represents a serious or imminent risk to my integrity or that of my colleagues.
- Rigorously comply with the Rules that Save Lives in high-risk tasks. Have zero tolerance to deviations in critical risks.
- Act preventively, addressing and providing feedback to a colleague when I detect a behavioral deviation.
- Evaluate Occupational Health and Safety Risks and establish controls that take them to an acceptable risk level in all activities before their execution.
